The Cuban Affair Nelson DeMille

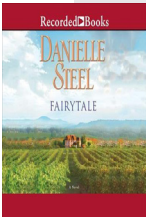

Daniel MacCormick--Mac-- a former Army infantry officer returned from two tours in Afghanistan with the Silver Star, two Purple Hearts, and The Maine, a charter fishing boat with a big bank loan. A lawyer named Carlos wants to hire Mac and The Maine for a ten-day fishing tournament to Cuba, but Mac suspects Carlos is hiding something and turns down the job. When the price spikes to two million he can't refuse. He agrees to meet Carlos's clients, Sara Ortega and Eduardo Valazquez. Mac learns that they are searching for a fortune hidden by Sara's grandfather when fleeing Castro's revolution. They know it's only a matter of time before someone finds the stash. And Mac knows that if he accepts the job, he'll walk away rich... or not at all.

Fairytale Danielle Steel

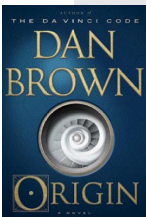

Christophe and Joy Lammenais built Chateau Lammenais into a small but renowned Napa Valley winery and an idyllic home where they raised their beloved daughter, Camille. But after Joy's early death in a battle against breast cancer, a lonely Christophe soon falls prey to the machinations of a sophisticate from his native France. When Christophe dies suddenly in a plane crash his new wife comes to consolidate her power over Camille and the property. However, with a French "fairy godmother" on the scene, the son of a neighboring vintner to assist, and a grand Harvest Ball on the horizon, lovely Camille may make some potent magic of her own....

Sleeping Beauties Stephen King

What might happen if women disappeared from the world of men? In a future so real and near it might be now, something happens when women go to sleep; they become shrouded in a cocoon-like gauze. If they are awakened, if the gauze wrapping their bodies is disturbed or violated, the women become feral and spectacularly violent; and while they sleep they go to another place... The men of our world are abandoned, left to their increasingly primal devices. One woman, however, the mysterious Evie, is immune to the blessing or curse of the sleeping disease. Is Evie a medical anomaly to be studied? Or is she a demon who must be slain?

Deep Freeze John Sandford

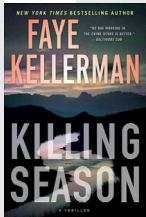

Virgil knows the town of Tripton, Minnesota well, a little too well if you ask him. A few years back he investigated the corrupt local school board, and now the town is back in the news, again in a negative light. A woman has been found dead, frozen in a block of ice. There's a possibility that it might be connected to a graduating high school class of twenty years ago that has a reunion coming up. Virgil begins to dig into twenty years' worth of traumas, feuds, and bad blood. In the process, one thing becomes increasingly clear to him; It's true what they say: High school is murder.

Killing Season Faye Kellerman

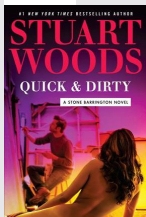

Three years ago, fifteen-year-old Ellen Vicksburg went missing in a quiet town in New Mexico. Ellen was kind, studious, and well-liked. Her younger brother, Ben, could imagine nothing worse than never knowing what happened to her--until he found her body in a shallow grave by the river's edge. Police believe she was the victim of a killer known as the Demon. But Ben's analytical mind sees patterns that don't fit. Despite his all-consuming push for answers, Ben has hit a wall. That is, until he gains an unlikely ally - the school's popular new girl, Ro Majors, who has secrets of her own.

Uncovering the truth may not be enough to keep Ben, Ro and their loved ones safe from a twisted and fixated killer who has nothing left to lose.

Don't Let Go Harlan Coben

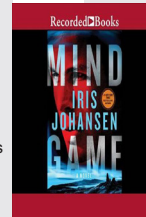

Detective Napoleon "Nap" Dumas hasn't been the same since his twin brother Leo and Leo's girlfriend Diana were found dead on the railroad tracks--and Maura, the girl Nap considered the love of his life, disappeared without explanation. For fifteen years he's been searching for Maura and the reason for his brother's death and it looks like he may finally find what he's been looking for. Nap embarks on a quest for answers that only leads to more questions--about the woman he loved, about the childhood friends he thought he knew, and about Leo and Diana--whose deaths are darker and far more sinister than Nap ever imagined.

The Rules of Magic Alice Hoffman

For the Owens family, love is a curse that began in 1620, when Maria Owens was charged with witch craft for loving the wrong man. Hundreds of years later Susanna Owens knows that her children are dangerously unique. Difficult Franny, with milk pale skin and blood red hair, shy beautiful Jet, who reads thoughts, and charismatic Vincent, who began looking for trouble the day he could walk. Susanna sets down strict rules: No walking in the moonlight, no red shoes, no wearing black, no cats, no candles, no books about magic, and, most importantly, never ever fall in love. But when the children uncover family secrets, they embark on a risky journey to escape the family curse.

Two Kinds of Truth Michael Connelly

Harry Bosch is back as a volunteer working cold cases for the San Fernando Police Department when he is called out to a local drug store where a young pharmacist has been murdered. Bosch and the town's 3-person detective squad sift through the clues, which lead them into the dangerous world of pill mills and prescription drug abuse. Meanwhile, an old case from Bosch's LAPD days comes back to haunt him when an imprisoned killer claims Harry framed him, and seems to have new evidence to prove it. The two unrelated cases wind around each other like strands of barbed wire and Bosch must untangle them alone. Along the way, he discovers that there are two kinds of truth: the kind that sets you free and the kind that leaves you buried in darkness.
